

...is produced by the Aviation Preservation Society of Scotland.

APSS organises the volunteer assistance of its members to the Museum of Flight, and conducts some restoration work of its own at the Museum. It has about 120 members, of whom 30 are active at the museum. The APSS is registered in Scotland as a Charity, SC033307

The APSS is independent of the Museum of Flight and this publication does not reflect the policies or opinion of the museum. Similarly, opinions expressed in Fortune Teller are not necessarily those of the Editor, or the Society.

Comments, ideas, draft articles for publication, etc., are welcome and should be sent to the Editor at :

Aviation Preservation Society of Scotland,
c/o Museum of Flight,
East Fortune Airfield,
North Berwick,
East Lothian, EH39 5LF

APSS Membership enquiries should be made to the Membership Secretary at the same address. Our Web site is:

www.apss.org.uk

<not completed at publication of FT 11>

This journal is for private circulation and is not for sale. While care is taken concerning copyright and no rights are claimed by the APSS, if you have a concern please contact the Editor.

Help and support from the Museum of Flight is gratefully acknowledged.

The Museum of Flight is part of the National Museums of Scotland. It's website can be found at :

www.nms.ac.uk/flight

Contents

Issue 11, Summer 2003

Chairman's Chat.....2

Subscriptions 2003 – 2004.....3

APSS – 30th Anniversary.....4

Great Good Fortune In The East.....8

R34 and the North Atlantic... 10

Phoenix Arising 16

Gift Aid 18

Mollison's Bellanca 19

Hidden Connections22

Hawker Sea Hawk25

Bobby Simpson's Indian Travels26

APSS Aircraft.....28

Front Cover Picture :

Sea Hawk, See Index.

Rear Cover Picture :

B17G at Oshkosh